Life is worth living to him, but a man represented by the Stuarts, and on account of which they were overthrown, namely, the prerogatives of the throne, or, as you would call it, the divine right of kings. We uphold the idea that there is such a thing as granting too much liberty to the common people. The commons of England are to-day the real rulers of the country—the throne but a shadow.

We also believe that the time is coming in the future when there must of necessity be a fixed, visible head in these United States—a something or some one in whom the idea of country or the nation can be incarnated and idealized, which to-day we vainly strive to keep alive under the name of the flag or the stars and stripes.

"In other words, we believe in a constitutional monarchy for this country, not so constitutional, however, as to deprive the monarch of all power of whatever nature. Society must be made over and renovated. There must be fixed grades and classes, and the line must be drawn somewhere."

"The most curious thing regarding the man who comes out so boldly with these amazing sentiments is the fact that his family have been for more than five generations citizens of New England. In fact, with the exception of Mr. Rodway, the members of the society in Boston come from old New England ancestry."

A SARCASTIC REPUBLICAN.

Governor Pingree of Michigan is one of those Republican who has a mind of his own and is not afraid to speak right out in meeting. He denounces the present tariff bill and asserts that the trusts will derive millions from it. He wants somebody to tell him how a duty that makes people pay more for what they consume is going to benefit them and how a higher price for sugar is going to bring prosperity. It seems to him that the trusts are going to reap all the benefits. He does not recall that the Dingley bill imposes any additional duty on paintings or diamonds, but it is the necessary commodities that bear the increased taxes. "The promoters of this bill," says Governor Pingree, "ought to be proud of it and I predict a reckoning for them yet with the people."

Governor Pingree does not seem to be in accord with his party. He talks too much like a person who thinks ordinary people have some rights that should be respected. He should bear in mind that his party is owned and governed by the trusts and that the trusts elected the President and Congress to legislate in their interests. The common herd, who voted for those people, deserve no sympathy. They are doing what they were elected to do, and so long as the combination which contributed $18,000,000 to Mr. Hanna's campaign corruption fund is satisfied the voters who were purchased with those millions should not complain, as they were paid for their votes. If Governor Pingree and the others, who voted for Mr. Hanna's men, have been deceived they should blame themselves for being so gullible, as it was generally known before election that the trusts and combinations which contributed millions to Mr. Hanna's fund expected to get their money back with usurious interest.

SILVER LITERATURE.

One of the most complete presentations of the silver question yet given to the American people was a series of able articles inserted in the Record of July 6th by Senator Jones of Arkansas. It is supposed to contain articles by the leading silver advocates of the world.

The "Gold Standard," by Brooks Adams, one of the clearest thinkers on the question, is well worthy of reading, and Nevada is represented by Mr. Newlands on "The Gold Famine, whose singularly striking language is attracting a great deal of attention. Other articles are by Morston Frewen, the great English bimetalist; Chas. A. Towne, the Minnesota silver man; and George Fred Williams, whose vigor in the New England States is making great headway, and another by the eloquent Bryan goes to make up a symposium of arguments that are unanswerable.

PRESIDENT McKINLEY intends to leave Washington next Wednesday for Lake Champlain if the tariff bill is disposed of and Congress adjourns before that time. Ozar Reed is expected to appoint the committees of the House before Congress adjourns. The House has now been in session over four months and the Speaker and the Committee on Rules run it to suit themselves.

The City Council at Kansas City, Kansas, ordered that women prisoners must don overalls and break stones just like male malefactors. This aroused the women of the State, who denounced the ordinance as barbarous, and before it was enforced, raised enough money to pay the fines of their unfortunate sisters, and now there is not a woman in the Kansas City jail.

A COPENHAGEN dispatch says that a carrier pigeon has been caught in the vicinity of Tromsø island, which had stamped upon its wing, "North Pole passed 15th." The bird is supposed to be one of those taken north by Professor Andre in his balloon, though some are disposed to doubt it and believe it was not turned loose by the daring explorer.

Santa Rosa has established a water system capable of furnishing the residents of the city with pure water free of cost. Pipes are laid so that the most humble inhabitant may take advantage of the supply, and the quantity is sufficient for 15,000 souls. Santa Rosa is the first city in the United States to attempt such a project, and it will be watched with interest.

Patrick Walsh, who shot Dr. McLean of San Francisco on Friday and then shot himself, had written a statement on the back of a letter found in his pocket, to the effect that the doctor had lied to him in regard to giving him a position and had therefore driven nails into his own coffin.

The Reno party that starts for the Northwest to-day has promised to write to the JOURNAL and tell all about the country. Their friends will look anxiously for letters and the JOURNAL will be pleased to publish the information.

In the city of Durango, Mexico, is an iron mountain 640 feet high, and the iron is from 60 to 70 per cent pure. The metallic mass spreads in all directions for a radius of four miles.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

The long struggle over the tariff bill ended yesterday. During the morning hours there was a small attendance, it having been agreed that the vote should be called in the afternoon at 3 o'clock. After some routine business, Mr. Allen of Nebraska resumed his speech in opposition to the tariff conference report and the bill in general. He criticized the effects of the bill and referred to various schedules. He paid his compliments to the money sharks and money grabbers of Wall street, to Grover Cleveland and others. He presented tables and comparisons and declared he would withhold his vote.

Mr. Caffery of Louisiana followed in a severe criticism of the sugar schedule. He was followed by Mr. Gear who questioned the figures of the other speakers and then Mr. Burrows of Michigan took up the time by questioning the rates on lumber, claiming that twenty-two States in the country would be injured while the Canadian mills and workmen were thriving.

The bill was then passed by a vote of 40 to 30. Senators Allan, Butler and Teller were present but did not vote. Senators Jones and Stewart voted for the bill.

The officers of the two Houses immediately signed the bill and it was dispatched to the President who affixed his signature to the bill at 4 o'clock. The resolution to adjourn was carried and the Senate agreed to adjourn at 9 o'clock.

The House was called to order and immediately adjourned until 3:30 p. m. At this hour the President's message relating to the Stone Currency Commission was taken up and read. During the reading Speaker Reed signed the tariff bill.

After reciting the needs of a revision of the financial system and that the money of the country should be established on an enduring basis and that the late election showed a determination upon the part of the people to keep their currency stable in value and equal to the most advanced nations of the world. Also that the sentiment of the country demanded early action of Congress in the direction of the revision of the currency laws and remove them from partisan contention. The President referred to the action of the business men who assembled at Indianapolis recommending the appointment of a monetary commission and commended the consideration of their report to Congress.

In conclusion the President says: "I therefore urge and recommend that a special commission be created, non-partisan in its character, to be composed of well informed citizens of different parties, who will command the confidence of Congress because of their special fitness for the work, whose duty it shall be to make recommendations of whatever changes in our present banking and currency laws may be found necessary, and who will reach their conclusions on or before the first day of November next, in order that the same may be transmitted by me to Congress for its consideration at its first regular session."

Governor Pingree of Michigan wired Senator Burrows and Congressmen Corliss and Spaulding of Michigan yesterday, that he regarded the duty on lumber, hides and sugar as non-Republican, unpatriotic and unfair. He claimed the lumber went into homes for the poor man, that the laborer wore twice as many shoes as the rich man and he used just as much sugar, consequently paid twice as much tax on hides and fully as much on sugar as the rich man. He claimed that it was unfair to make the poor pay as much per capita as the rich toward the support of the Government. Properties, not human stocks should be taxed. Property is protected by our laws and should pay for its protection.

The steamship Yokohama arrived from the Hawaiian Islands yesterday and reports that the Japanese question remains in statu quo. Minister Shimamura of Japan was informed that the Hawaiian Government would pass and enforce laws which regulate immigration to that country. The Minister first admitted the right, but subsequently claimed that the enforcement of such laws was in direct violation of the clause in the treaty which gives the subjects of Japan the same rights as other nations. He decided to submit the matter to his government.

The strike has now reached almost its end and Monday will probably settle the matter one way or the other. It is believed that if the men do not go to work Monday morning they never will. The organizers are leaving the field and the leaders are greatly discouraged. The first overt act during the strike was by a mine operator who drew a pistol. He was arrested and the strikers are making a strong point out of this, claiming that the first man to break the law was an operator.

A fire in the Casino Summer Theatre at Paducah, Ky., on Friday night during a performance of "The Streets of New York" caused a panic among the 600 people who were in the audience. Parents were separated from their children and the scene was terrible. Heroic men entered the burning building and rescued people at the last moment. No fatalities occurred.

J. Scandling was escorted out of Grass Valley by the Miners' Union on Friday night, but returned yesterday morning. He appeared on the streets and asserted that he would insist on his rights and would shoot the first man that molested him.

Things to be Considered by Those Who Have the Alaska Crave.

A party who has been in the Alaskan gold fields told a JOURNAL reporter yesterday that one of the things that people who contemplated going there had not considered was the fact that when the mines were discovered there were already many people in Alaska. Since the discovery many more have gone into the country, so that the present population is close on 4,000 souls. These people are near at hand comparatively and acclimated, and if the mines are as represented, they have all, or nearly all, rushed to the front and taken up the country. Our informant says that the creek on which the best mines are located is about thirty miles long and the gold is near the mouth where it empties into the Yukon. The placer claims adjacent to the creek will cover a territory of about five miles wide and ten or twelve long. He says that for the life of him he cannot see what the hundreds and perhaps thousands that are now flocking into the mines are going to do when they get there. The immediate mining territory will not give them much more than standing room, let alone an opportunity for locations which have no doubt already been made all over the country. Some of the new comers who have money may succeed in buying out claims already settled upon, but it will take coin to do it. Besides, he claims, that under the most favorable circumstances it will take those who start now or within the next month, fully six months and perhaps longer to reach the fields. In that time every foot of ground will be taken up and the next grand rush will be for the mob to get out of the country, and it's a sure thing they can't all get away at once with the means of transportation at hand.

The Mandamus Case Postponed.

The mandamus suit instituted July 6th by Messrs. Norcross, Summerfield & Torreyson, to compel the Auditor to draw his warrant against Washoe county for $170 attorneys fees in the famous Anderson sheep case, which was to have come up before Judge Cheney yesterday, has been postponed a second time.

It will be remembered that this case grew out of the erroneous assessing by Storey county officials of Messrs. Anderson & McGregors' sheep. It was claimed that the County Commissioners of Washoe county had agreed to pay Mr. Anderson his actual expenses in conducting a suit for damages against Storey county, but there being no record of such an agreement, the Auditor vetoed the claim. Subsequently (June 15, 1896) the Commissioners met and amended their minutes of May 25, 1895, and it appeared that the alleged agreement was correct and the claim was passed over the Auditor's veto. But the Auditor refused to draw his warrant when called upon by Mr. Summerfield.

If the Auditor is compelled to draw this warrant, then the action of the Commissioners is sustained and a precedent will have been established by which we may be liable for such claims in every contiguous county whenever such a contingency arises.

Asks for a Reduction of the Assessment.

D. A. Bender addressed the California State Board of Equalization at Sacramento last Thursday afternoon relative to the valuation of the Carson & Colorado Railroad. The road runs through a portion of Eastern California and Western Nevada, 107 miles of the 300 miles of track being in Inyo and Mono counties, California.

Mr. Bender stated to the Board that the conditions this year were quite the same as in former years; there was a steady decrease in the earnings of the road each year, and it was being operated at a loss.

The Board had fixed the assessable value of the road in 1896 at $2,137 per mile. Mr. Bender explained, but the net earnings for the first fiscal year ending June 30, 1896, had been $21,331.95, and for the calendar year of 1896, $17,137.32, which would scarcely cover the wear and tear of the track and rolling stock.

The company had built the road at a cost of $3,500,000, but had not received one-half of one per cent. on the investment. That portion of the road operating in Nevada, and which was more valuable than the California portion was assessed at $1,800 and $1,200 per mile, and he asked that the Board reduce the assessment for the present over to the latter figure.

Has Been There.

J. J. Allenbach of Reno, whom nearly everyone here knows, says that there is no doubt but what there is plenty of gold in Alaska. He spent three years in that country and is well posted on its resources, climate, etc. Jake says that when one considers the privations, suffering and other drawbacks to be met with, the gold taken out ought to bring $1,000 an ounce to make it much of an object, and then the lucky man is taking desperate chances on selling his life at a discount. He says he wouldn't go there again for all the gold in the country and he is a pretty energetic young man, too.

Charlie Higley killed an immense rattlesnake near McClanburg. It is reported that rattlers are uncomfortably numerous at Olinghouse and whisky is scarce. It is strange, for the two evils are usually closely associated.

Notte Leele, who returned from Mexico on the 6th inst. in poor health occasioned by blood poisoning, is again up and around and on the road to recovery. He was stung by a scorpion some time ago and the effect of the poisonous bite was so serious that he came very near losing his arm. Notte shows by his appearance that he has been through a severe siege.

From Lovelocks.

Pete Anker, one of Lovelocks' progressive citizens, spent the day here yesterday and reports Lovelocks and the country adjacent in a prosperous condition. Mr. Anker not only has farming interests in that country, but is interested in a threshing machine and has made a careful canvass of the country north of Lovelocks in connection with the grain crop for the present season. He estimates the crop of wheat at 12,000 tons in that section and it may possibly run over, but this is a conservative estimate. He reports the alfalfa crop heavier than usual and crops in general are better than they have been for six years.

The people of the community are in good spirits and satisfied and by way of varying the routine of life they stir up a little local mining excitement that acts as a counter irritant to any Alaskan dream and the Lovelock people are happy with their lot and have no complaint as Mr. Anker an able representative of the community exemplifies.

Smith Valley Bullion.

Ike Miller and J. Farrell, who own a gold mine in Alkali district, Smith Valley, about three miles from the new Everett mill, drove in from Mason Valley Wednesday evening with a bar of bullion from a clean-up at the Everett mill. The bar weighed about eleven pounds, and was the result of the working of 116 tons of ore. The boys took their bar to the Carson Mint Thursday, and returned to the valley yesterday morning, being very well satisfied with the returns. The bullion went a little over $15 per ounce in fineness and yielded something over $26 to a ton of ore. This would make the bar the boys disposed of worth a little over $3,000.—Dayton Times

NATURE'S CYCLE-PATH.

The Sandy Shore of Lake Erie Is Admirably Fitted for Wheeling.

Most of us, at one time or another, have basked for awhile upon some sandy beach of ocean or lake; we have bathed in the surf, gathered shells upon the shore, and thus whiled away many idle hours. But it was reserved for the bicycle to make us really acquainted with those stretches of beach and shore which seem to have been purposely prepared by kind Mother Nature as a glorious cycle path. Whether or not she originally intended it for wheels, she certainly spends a great deal of her time in keeping the path in repair; and those active servants of hers, Wind and Wave, Ram and Sm, are kept very busy at work upon it all the time.

This long and varied path stretches in its entirety hundreds of miles along our ocean shores and around the borders of our great lakes; but the particular bit with which we became familiar during happy summer weeks, and to share in whose delights I would tempt others, is a comparatively small portion on the southern shore of Lake Erie. It begins with the extreme end of Cedar Point, which with its long arm holds in a portion of Sandusky bay, and extends eastward 15 miles or more up the shore. This sandy shore continues all the way to Cleveland and beyond; but because of some intervening piles of rock one cannot ride the whole 50 or 60 miles. The shorter distance is, however, enough for a summer day's ride, especially if one takes it comfortably and leisurely, and appropriates to himself the countless joys spread before him.—Grace Wickham Curran, in St. Nicholas.

—A five-acre tract of land in St. Louis county, Mo., on which Fred Schaeffer has a fine young orchard, has begun to slide down hill, with a view of precipitating itself over a precipice, and the sliding of the upper crust, 13 feet thick, has revealed the fact that it overlaid a stratum of superior fire clay 20 feet thick.

—No other machine ever had so many names. It is called the kinetoscope, cinematograph, eidoloscope, projectoscope, graphoscope, motograph, kinematograph, animatroscope, vitascope, cinematoscope, veriscope, vivroscope, biograph, rayscope, migniscope, the zoetrope, ammatograph and at least a dozen others. In photographic circles all are classed as projecting apparatus.

The really great American tree of to-day is the big tree of Tule in Mexico, in the state of Oaxaca. That tree, cypress, still in full vigor and active growth is 154 feet in circumference. If a section of this tree were taken for a table there is no house that it could be taken into. Mr. Astor proposes to put 40 of his fellow Englishmen at 45 front feet of table. That's the very tight squeeze of 114 foot apiece. Similarly jammed you could put 136 people at the Tule tree table.—Chicago Chronicle.
